Muddy Family Has Fine Record of Sunday School Attendance

NEWSPAPERS carry so much of sorrow, of crime, that the good is unusual. So maybe these items are unusual.

ITEM NO. ONE: Mr. and Mrs. Owen Disney, who operate a grocery store at Muddy, wish that the Muddy Baptist church had kept Sunday school attendance records more than just the past seven years.

The church was organized in 1924, but only for the past seven years have these records been kept.

Because, during these seven years, the family has 49 years of continuous attendance in Sunday school. That is, the figure will be 49 in January, less than a month off, when a couple of the boys will reach seven years of perfect attendance.

But for all practical purposes they have reached seven years now.

I talked with Mrs. Disney at the store yesterday. She, Sammy, 19, Richard, 15, David, 13, all have had perfect attendance records since the records have been kept. Peggy, 20, and Sue, 7, each has six years of perfect attendance.

Mr. Disney's record is three years. He spent considerable time in a hospital in St. Louis and had to miss out on his Sunday school.

It really is too bad that records haven't been kept all along because the family members have been going to Sunday school all their lives. On visits and vacations they keep their records intact. If they find a Baptist church, they go to it. If not, they go to the church of another denomination.

To keep up the records, they have gone when they felt pretty bad, but except for Mr. Disney, all have been fortunate in not having illnesses or injuries that would keep them from walking to church.

"Sometimes it has been hard, getting five children and yourselves off for Sunday school, but we've always made it," Mrs. Disney commented. "All of the children have gone regularly since they were babies."

Mr. Disney has been the Sunday school superintendent for years and his wife has taught a class for a long time. Daughter Peggy has taught the beginners class.

Defy Troopers To Protest Ban On Bowl Play

Governor Says He Will Not Retract
From Decision

ATLANTA (UP)—Georgia Tech students defied troopers armed with tear gas today in a riot protesting Gov. Marvin Griffin's ban on Tech's Sugar Bowl football engagement with Pittsburgh, which has a Negro player.

State highway patrolmen reinforced by detachments from throughout North Georgia moved in on some 2,000 shouting students who marched upon the governor's mansion after storming the state capitol.

The capitol was left a shambles of overturned waste baskets and desks and sand boxes.

Four agents of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation were engulfed by one group of hundreds of students who scuffled with building guards on the capitol steps. One GBI agent received a punch on the head.

The students then marched to the executive mansion, leaving burned effigies of Griffin and overturned sidewalk trash baskets strewn along miles of their path up famed Peachtree St.

A growing body of Atlanta and Fulton County police retreated ahead of the marchers until the shouting students thronged upon Griffin's official residence, waving torches and placards, and blowing auto horns.

Refused To Back Down

Griffin, talking with newsmen by telephone while the crowd swirled outside, said he would not retract his request that the state Board of Regents call off Tech's participation in the Sugar Bowl game.

By that time police were setting reinforcements from adjacent counties and carloads of troopers arrived from north Georgia cities as far as 100 miles away. They formed a cordon around the mansion.

Troopers were armed with tear gas grenades but did not use them. Some three hours after the demonstration began on the Tech campus the students began dispersing.

The students burned four effigies of Griffin on the Tech campus, one at the downtown "Five Points" intersection, and one on the capitol grounds.

They carried signs reading, "We want to go to the Sugar Bowl" and "Grow up, Griffin."

Griffin, in asking the regents to call off the Sugar Bowl game, said the South "stands at Armageddon—we cannot make the slightest concession to the enemy."

Chairman Robert O. Arnold of the Georgia Board of Regents said he would call a special meeting which Griffin requested and added, "I respect the governor of Georgia's wishes as the supreme authority over all state agencies."

Arnold had commented earlier that he had no intention of making an issue of a protest against the game by the influential, pro-segregation States' Rights Council of Georgia, Inc., which has one executive member on the Board of Regents.

No Earlier Objections

Arnold pointed out that both Georgia Tech and its sister insti-

East Germans Threaten Berlin Lifeline

BERLIN (UP)—A West German government spokesman announced today the East German Communists have threatened free Berlin's lifelines by refusing to renew yearly shipping permits for barges bringing supplies to the Western sector.

The Communist refusal could halt all waterways traffic to West Berlin from West Germany Jan. 1. It was a direct outgrowth of the Soviet grant of sovereignty to East Germany and the transfer of control over German traffic to Berlin from Soviet authorities to German Communists.

Fog Blankets East, Snow Swirls in West

By United Press

A vast blanket of fog shrouded most of the nation's eastern half today and a snow storm swirled in the West.

The fog started in Kansas, Eastern Nebraska, and Minnesota and stretched eastward across the Great Lakes, the Ohio Valley, and along the Eastern Seaboard from New England to Florida.

Snow and sleet had slicked much of the area earlier and the combination of murky, wintry weather sent the traffic accident rate climbing.

Meanwhile, a major snow storm predicted for the nation's midlands failed to develop. The weather bureau had issued heavy snow warnings for a six-state area, but forecasts of up to six inches of snow were later revised downwards.

Heavy Western Snowfall

There was still plenty of new snow to the west, however. Landers, Wyo., reported nine inches in a 12-hour period and there was four to seven inches in the Central Rockies and Western Nebraska.

The widespread fog caused complaints of gas fumes at Chicago and trapped a burglar at San Antonio, Tex.

At San Antonio, the fog was so thick it slicked the roof of Deputy Sheriff George Huntress' home. A burglar trying to break into Huntress' house slipped off the roof and broke his arm. Huntress heard him groaning and arrested him.

Snow and sleet was blamed for a four-car crash which killed two persons at Chicago. Near New Haven, Ind., Thomas Hartley, 28, Wellston, Ohio, was killed in a three-truck crash on slippery U. S. 30, and an Indianapolis woman died of injuries when she fell on a snow-covered sidewalk.

They said it was Gersbacher's truck that hit the automobile.

Arraigned before Police Magistrate Vern Joyner Jr. this morning, Gersbacher pleaded innocent to the charges filed against him—driving while under the influence of alcohol, reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

He was released under $500 bond and his trial was set for 10 a. m. Sept. 17.

12 Killed in Fiery Train Crash in Britain

33 Injured are Pulled from Burning Wreckage

LONDON (UP)—A commuter train loaded with Friday night fun seekers plowed into the rear of a halted freight train early today, killing 12 persons in a "hell" of fire and blazing electricity.

At least 33 injured persons were pulled from the burning heap of wreckage at tiny Barnes Station 10 miles southwest of London.

The freight train had stopped for a signal just outside the station. The four coach electric commuter train, carrying about 150 persons from a night on the town in London, smashed into the freight and turned on its side.

Flames and blue flashes of electricity shot 100 feet into the air.

Police believed all the bodies had been recovered. They said all the dead had either burned to death or been electrocuted.

Cries of agony from trapped passengers could be heard above the roaring of the flames.

Sizzling Electricity

Police Constable Thomas Oliver said he had to "hack my way into hell" to get to the victims. "There was electricity sizzling all around us and great blue flames shooting up the line in all directions."

A guard on the freight train was among the dead. Police said most of the other casualties were in the first car of the commuter train which caught fire immediately.

Alfred Lester was a passenger in one of the back coaches. After the crash, he said, "the electricity seemed to be flashing all around us. I could hear people screaming and the next thing I remember was somebody dragging me out of the door above us and hauling us out of the compartment."

Short-circuiting of the electric tracks which provided power for the trains was believed to have caused the fire, which licked at the supports of a highway bridge overhead.

It was Britain's second major rail mishap in two weeks. On Nov. 20, an excursion train jumped the tracks at Stevenage, killing 10 and injuring 106.

Truck Hits Parked Auto; Driver Arrested

The parked automobile of Charles Duncan of Harrisburg Route 1 was struck from the rear while he was in the home of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Orval Nelson, at 319 East Locust street, shortly before seven o'clock last night and city police arrested Raymond Gersbacher following the collision.

General Motors Threatened with Federal Legislation on Franchises

WASHINGTON (UP)—The threat of federal legislation today confronted auto makers if they don't voluntarily revise franchise contracts in favor of dealers.

Despite the threat, the top officials of General Motors Corp., the largest auto manufacturer, indicated they would not take such action voluntarily.

Chairman Joseph C. O'Mahoney of the Senate monopoly subcommittee implied strongly that he would sponsor such legislation after Harlow H. Curtice, GM president, refused the senator's suggestion that GM officials discuss franchise revisions with its dealers.

Curtice and Alfred P. Sloan Jr., GM chairman of the board, appeared as witnesses before the subcommittee Friday. Earlier, a parade of GM dealers, most of them disfranchised, had testified GM had used its one-year franchise as a club to force them into financially unsound sales practices.

The subcommittee Friday ended its fourth week of a so-called "case study" of the impact of General Motors operations on the nation's economy.

O'Mahoney charged that the present franchise contract is one-sided in favor of the manufacturer with the dealer having virtually no rights under it.

"I think our contract is not as you interpret it," Curtice replied. "General Motors is the servant of the dealers, providing our dealers with the kind of product that must be acceptable to the dealers' customers."

"I think the relationship between General Motors and the majority of its dealers is on a very high level."

The 80-year-old Sloan, his hearing aid plugged into the public address system, for about three hours answered questions of O'Mahoney and subcommittee chief counsel Joseph W. Byrnes.

He said that bigness of an industrial corporation has no relation with efficiency.

General Motors has "no policy to expand just for the sake of expanding," he said. Past expansions have been made because they would strengthen General Motors, he added.

"I think our contract is not as you interpret it," Curtice replied. "General Motors is the servant of the dealers, providing our dealers with the kind of product that must be acceptable to the dealers' customers."

The nine children snuggled up Friday night in the first warm and dry beds they had enjoyed in weeks.

Mrs. James L. Hamilton and the youngsters, ranging from one to 16, were taken under the wing of the Travelers Aid Society here after Hamilton, a 49-year-old itinerant laborer, left them stranded on a highway near Shelbyville, Tenn., with only $2.

The mother, 36, said the family was traveling from Colorado, where Hamilton had last worked, to Waycross, Ga.

To File Murder Charge Against Lester Ayers, 47

Aaron Youngman, 60, Slain on Trouble
Call to Tavern

MT. CARMEL, Ill.—Charges of murder were scheduled to be filed this morning against Lester Ayers, 47-year-old St. Francisville farmer who witnesses saw shoot down and kill a Mt. Carmel policeman last night.

Dead is Patrolman Aaron Youngman, 60-year-old officer who has 20 grandchildren. He was shot and killed on a downtown sidewalk here while on a routine investigation of trouble at a tavern.

His fellow officer, Patrolman Jess Batchelor, said that Youngman was shot down for no apparent reason by Ayers. Batchelor subdued Ayers with a blackjack.

Fired Point-Blank

Batchelor said he and Youngman were cruising in the city police car when they received a call over the police radio at 6:35 p. m. to investigate trouble at a Main street tavern. When they arrived they saw a man, later identified as Ayers, staggering on the sidewalk near the tavern and approached him from the rear.

They were warned by a man standing nearby that Ayers might have a gun, Batchelor declared, and when they were just a few feet away Ayers turned around and fired three shots at point-blank range from a .25-caliber Italian pistol. One shot struck Youngman directly under the heart.

"He didn't have a chance," Batchelor said of Youngman.

Batchelor said he then struck Ayers down with his blackjack and when Ayers started to reach for his gun, which was lying a few inches from his hand, he kicked Ayers in the face.

He said he then picked up Ayers, who was so enraged it took four men to put him in a police car, and that he tried to reach for a knife he had in his pocket.

Youngman, who was rushed to a hospital, was pronounced dead on arrival.

Police said they had at least six witnesses to the shooting. One said that before the police arrived Ayers was inside the tavern brandishing the pistol and making threats.

Youngman is survived by his wife, Elsie, a stepson, William H. Calvin of Mt. Carmel, a stepdaughter, Mrs. R. E. Cooper of Columbia, S. C., two daughters, Wanda Dowling of Mt. Carmel and Roberta Davis of Hopkins, Mich.; a son, Aaron Youngman Jr. of Caseyville, Ill.; a brother, sister, and 20 grandchildren.

City to Receive $4,783 Tax for September Sales

The municipal one-half cent sales tax netted the city of Harrisburg $4,783 on September business transactions, it was revealed in a report made by State Revenue Director Richard J. Lyons.

The city of Harrisburg has not yet received any tax money although the amount has been made public at Springfield, it was learned. The city inaugurated the municipal sales tax Sept. 1 and this will be the first sales tax money to be received by the city.

Carrier Mills also started its municipal sales tax the same time as Harrisburg and will receive $628 as its share on September transactions. Eldorado's allotment for September business will be $1,788, and Galatia's is $149.

The Lyons report showed that 350 Illinois cities will receive a total of $2,631,637 on September business and that the number of municipalities passing the tax continues to grow, with a total of 617 cities, towns and villages on the department rolls as of Nov. 29.

Amounts other southern Illinois municipalities will receive for September transactions:

LOBSTER SPAGHETTI SANDWICHES LOBSTER SPAGHETTI

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
AEC Chairman Strauss Would Put Dixon-Yates In Earth Satellite; Sherman Adams Lightens Ike's Load 99 Per Cent;
Jim Hagerty Watched Doctors' Press Statements Like Hawk.

WASHINGTON. — Adm. Lewis Strauss, austere chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, un-bent a bit after being on a national television program.

On the program he had been asked about the now defunct Dixon-Yates contracts which for months he steadfastly championed despite criticism from Congress, from the Tennessee Valley and even from inside the Eisenhower cabinet.

On TV, Admiral Strauss gave a perfunctory, routine answer. But after he was away from the TV cameras and sitting in relaxed mood with friends, he remarked that he wished he could have given another answer to the Dixon-Yates question.

Asked what the other answer would have been, Strauss replied:
"I think I would like to have said the Dixon-Yates contract is connected with the earth satellite program."

"I suppose somebody would then have asked me, 'How come?'" Strauss continued.

"To which I would have further replied: 'I would like to put the Dixon-Yates contract in the earth satellite and shoot it into outer space.'"

TWO AROUND IKE

The men who can claim chief credit for getting Eisenhower in a more receptive frame of mind—if, as Len Hall says, Ike is more receptive — are efficient Sherman Adams, the assistant president, and Jim Hagerty, astute, genial secretary for the press.

The first has done what Ike always thought could be done even before he became President — handled all problems except top-top policy. The second has created both public confidence in Ike's health and Ike's confidence in his own health.

The man who did the first, Sherman Adams, has largely fulfilled Eisenhower's private hope that the job of being President of the United States could be more like the job of being President of France, with a prime minister to handle legislative and other matters.

Sherman Adams has done this.
He did it to a large extent before
Ike became ill, but he has done it 99 per cent since he became ill.
Adams not only is assistant president, but he is largely the cabinet.
He correlates and coordinates with the cabinet. With few exceptions, they report to him.

Even Secretary Dulles, who does report to Ike on foreign policy, was careful at Denver not to take up too many major matters connected with the Geneva conference. It might have been better, incidentally, if he had.

HAGERTY AND HEALTH

Jim Hagerty, the other potent
is not only one of the most astute public relations men ever to operate in Washington, but he has also become the confidant of the President and to some extent his appointment secretary. Sitting in Denver week in and week out, Hagerty had closer contact with Eisenhower than any other man, and as much as Sherman Adams ruled on who could see him.

Most important of all, Hagerty watched every move by the press and by the doctors to mold public opinion. His aim was not only to create public confidence in the President's health, but to create presidential confidence in his own health.

That was why Hagerty got so sore at the interview given by Dr.
Paul Dudley White in his home in Boston indicating that there was much more doubt than earlier expressed as to whether the President could ever recover.

It was also Hagerty who was given credit for the adroit postponement of the date of January 1 when the doctors would pass on whether Ike could run again.

Though Dr. White had previously fixed the date of January 1, on his last visit to Denver he was diplomatically asked to postpone it.
Finally he did, though he was hesitant, as shown by the stenographic transcript, and actually passed the buck to the more politically minded Dr. Howard Snyder, who had been Eisenhower's personal physician even when he was in the Army.

The transcript of the doctors' press conference, as arranged by Hagerty, is interesting.

WHAT THE DOCTORS SAID

When White, who as the heart expert should be in the best position to know when Ike will have enough medical knowledge to decide whether to run again, was questioned, he replied:

"The President has got to expose himself to the beginning of more strain than he has had yet ... to make that decision—which may bring him into January certainly ... have you any suggestions about that, Dr. Snyder?"

While Snyder was thinking it over, Dr. White added: "It might be into January. But it may be longer. I don't know. I have no answer for that now."

"I kind of think longer, a bit longer," broke in Snyder positively.

Reporters, long familiar with the adroit hand of Jim Hagerty, went away with the feeling Dr.
Snyder's answer was more political than medical.

COGS VS. HUMAN BEINGS

A big newspaper in a big city may not seem to have a heart. Its presses turn out pulp, headlines, printers ink with machine-like precision. But the other day New Yorkers gathered to salute the New York Daily Mirror for helping keep half a million kids off the streets in any American city.

There was a time when the cultivation of youth was a philanthropy. Today it's a necessity.

Harvard University, completing a study of Soviet education, found that Russia produced only two higher institution graduates compared with five of ours. But they produced twice as many engineers, nine times as many farm experts, three times as many doctors.

In brief, the Russians are producing cogs in a machine. What the Mirror has been doing in the USA's biggest city is to use its machines to run off papers and its farm-plan program of basketball, swimming, track, open forums, to produce human beings.

for the past four years.

ITEM NO. TWO: Some people like to hunt, to fish, to do this or that for a hobby. Sam Grubbs' hobby is shaving and cutting the hair of patients in three nursing homes.

Grubbs, Eldorado resident who lays concrete blocks for a living, does his tonsorial chores free of charge.

Every Saturday night and Sunday he goes to the two nursing homes at Eldorado and to the one at Galatia, ready to give shaves and haircuts to the men patients.
And they all take him up on his offer.

It's all free work, too, because, as we said earlier, it's the man's hobby. He just likes to do it for the elderly people.

He's been going to the two nursing homes in Eldorado for the past three years and to the one at Ga-latia since it was started some time later. He also has taken care of some patients at Ferrell hospital who needed some work done. And although he doesn't take a penny, sometimes he is remembered with Christmas and birthday presents.

When did he start shaving and giving haircuts to elderly men?

Mr. Grubbs lived at Wasson from 1910 to 1944 and there he started his hobby on the Rev. Robert Dawson, who was 101 years old when he was honored at the Saline County Centennial celebration in 1947. He also did the barber work on some other elderly men who were unable to get out of their homes and go to barber shops.

At Wasson Mr. Grubbs was well-known as the Democratic president committeeman for years.

ers in the past, and also that neither Tech nor the Sugar Bowl officials at New Orleans raised any objections to this game.

Pitt said his Negro fullback, Bobby Grier, would travel, eat, live, practice and play with the team in the bowl game slated for Jan. 2.
The National Broadcasting Co.
quoted Col. Blake Van Leer, president of Georgia Tech, as saying in a telephone interview that "I'm 60 years old and have never broken a contract and I'm not going to break one now."

The only other regent who was willing to comment was David Rice who said Griffin's action was "ridiculous and asinine."

Rice said that injecting the race issue into the football program would harm the chances of both Georgia and Georgia Tech to receive bowl bids in the future.

(Ronnie's Studio Photo)
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Maloney

Before an altar adorned with small white chrysanthemums, candelabra holding white burning tapers, and a white arch flanked by two large baskets of greenery, Miss Ona Florence James, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. James, RFD 4, Harrisburg, became the bride of Charles Edward Maloney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Austin Maloney, in a six o'clock ceremony performed Saturday evening, Nov. 26 at the Raleigh Baptist church.

The pastor, Rev. Howard Taylor, officiated at the double ring service. Miss Beth Minner, soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Madge Dougherty at the organ, sang "I Love You Truly," "Always," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride chose for her wedding a ballerina length gown designed with a lace bodice with long sleeves coming to a point over the hands and a full skirt of delicately pleated nylon tulle encircled with bands of imported lace. She wore a fingertip veil of tulle caught to a white satin head piece and carried an orchid with small satin streamers on a white Bible.

Miss Pat Bruce, Wilmington, cousin of the bride, wore a bright blue dress with a matching hat and carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

Lewis William Reeder, Eldorado, served as best man and Danny James, brother of the bride, and Johnny Bishop were ushers.

Mrs. James was attired in a dress of navy with white and white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother also wore navy and white.

Gunman Seized In FBI Trap

CHICAGO (AP)—John Allen Kendrick, 38, a hardened, veteran gunman and one of the nation's 10 most wanted criminals, was captured in an FBI trap at a Loop hotel late Friday night.

Kendrick, who had made his living with a gun for more than 32 years, was unarmed and offered no resistance when FBI agents broke into the hotel room where he was visiting a friend shortly before midnight.

But he refused to say where he had been living in Chicago or to even admit his identity.

He snarled that his name was "Mr. No Name."

Kendrick, the most recent man placed on the FBI's "most wanted" list, was sought for the shooting of George A. Cline in Washington, D. C., last Dec. 14.

He had a long police record which included an alliance with the notorious Tri-State Gang in the East and escapes from prisons in New Jersey and Washington, D. C.

David Hostetter, chief FBI agent here, said authorities learned recently that Kendrick was active in the Chicago area.

Hostetter would not reveal the details of the capture, except to say that agents expected Kendrick to turn up at the Loop hotel and were waiting for him. He was not a guest at the hotel, Hostetter said.

Martin Predicts Ike Will Run

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. predicted after a conference with President Eisenhower today that the President "for the sake of the world will consent to run for reelection."

Martin made his forecast for newsmen after a 45-minute talk with Mr. Eisenhower at his temporary White House office here. He emphasized that the President did not reveal his intentions. He said he was relaying only his own personal opinion and impressions.

Martin said it seems to him it will be "essential" for the President to run, because the free world continues to need him.

SIU Expert Opposes Athletic Contests For Junior High Boys

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP)—Dr. Frank Bridges of Southern Illinois university says football teams, week-night basketball games and state basketball tournaments for junior high school students should be abolished.

Bridges takes that stand in the current issue of the Illinois School Board Journal. He says junior high school athletic contests should be replaced by well-planned physical education and intramural sports programs for all students.

The article says highly competitive sports put too much physical and emotional strain on young

MEMORIAL SUNDAY

The golden bridge of life
Is but one way . . .

All paths whether filled
With thorns or flowers

Lead to the common democracy,
Where all men are equal . . .

Where Midas relinquishes his millions
And Lazarus his rags.

To those who have crossed it,
Elkdom has dedicated the first

Sunday in December as a day
Of tender recollection and memory . .

Fraternalism knows no more Dignified or befitting ceremony.

So Brother, forget not this day . . .
Congregate with your fellow men

To honor and pay the proper respect
To our great membership

Christmas Trees Newest Farm Crop in State

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—One of Illinois' newest farm crops, Christmas trees, with a net valuation of $100,000 and increasing annually, will be harvested and marketed during the next four weeks.

Christmas trees planted five to seven years ago as part of reforestation projects now are ready for thinning and the first phase of profit-taking by the land owner, it was pointed out here today by the Illinois Department of Conservation.

Director Glen D. Palmer said that the crop not only includes Illinois-grown Christmas trees, but also greens for the holiday decoration and "a lot of satisfaction for the farmer who is using land unfit for any other purpose. The farmer is getting an early cash return from his forest, he's protecting his watershed from erosion, and later on will obtain a steady income from poles and sawlogs."

Harvest for the wholesale market begins soon after corn picking when other work generally is slack. Retail cutting and selling at the farm continue until Christmas.

E. E. Nuttall, state forester, said that, unlike other farm products, there is no surplus of good, fresh home-grown Christmas trees and greens. In fact, about two million dollars worth of trees are shipped into Illinois each holiday season.

Christmas trees and greens being harvested now were planted from five to seven years ago. Evergreen seedlings for reforestation in Illinois can be purchased from the Department of Conservation in Springfield. Prices range from 1-2 to 1-2 cents per seedling. At least 500 seedlings must be ordered.

Director Palmer urges land owners to contact the department's Division of Forestry in Springfield for detailed information about reforestation for tree plantations, soil and water conservation and wildlife habitat. Information and application forms also are available from district foresters located about the state and from most county agricultural offices.

"Reforestation plantations are needed on approximately two million acres of Illinois land unsuited for other crops," Director Palmer observed. "To allow that land to remain idle is like paying for a dead horse."

Working Gals Found Cheated at Home

MADISON, Wis.—(AP)—Today's young marrieds are equals in just about everything—except the housework.

That's the conclusion reached by Everett D. Dyer, a University of Wisconsin sociologist, who made a study of 129 working couples.

"Even though the wife is now sharing the family provider role with her husband, there is relatively little reciprocal sharing in the homemaker role by the husband," Dyer said.

Dyer completed the study of his doctoral thesis in sociology because "the two-income family is becoming an integral part of American society."

Predict Little 'Overall' Change in Farm Production Costs

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—The Agriculture Department predicts "little overall change" in farm production costs in 1956.

The department's periodical "The Farm Cost Situation," gave these 1956 predictions of farm cost rates Sunday as compared to this year:

Feed and seeds: Expected to be somewhat lower on the average.

Fertilizer, farm supplies and livestock for feeding and replacement: Expected to remain fairly stable.

Farm wage rates, interest rates and prices of building and fencing materials, farm machinery, motor vehicles and motor supplies: Expected to be slightly higher.

Farm property taxes per acre: Expected to be about 5 per cent higher.

The Puritan Government banned the celebration of Christmas in England in 1643 in an attempt to do away with all form of frivolity.

SIU Country Column

By Pete Brown
Guest Columnist

Wide-row corn planting with interseeding of other crops between rows isn't entirely new but certainly is not practiced in ordinary dirt farming in southern Illinois.

Why bring up the subject?

A Southern Illinois university graduate student in zoology, Paul Vohs Jr., Kansas City, Kan., has undertaken experimental work of this nature in the area in connection with his game management research.

In three separate field-size test areas, ranging from seven to 12 acres each, corn has been planted in varying arrangements. 40-80-40 inches between rows, 40-120-40, and 80-80-40. In the widened gaps Vohs sowed combinations of rye, vetch, Sudan grass, soybeans, cow peas, and millet. Not all were used on any one test.

Interseedings of grasses planned particularly for waterfowl cover were used in a test field in the Crab Orchard Lake wildlife refuge. Other combinations have been used in a field near Little Grass Lake. Legume seedings in a third field provided by the United Electric Coal company near Du Quoin suffered from unfavorable weather conditions.

It still is too early for Vohs to determine any concrete results from his work this year. Corn planting was a little late and seedlings suffered from drought, but there is enough interest in it that the sponsoring agencies, including the Illinois Department of Conservation, the Illinois Natural History Survey, the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, and the SIU Co-Operative Wildlife Research Laboratory, intend to keep it going.

SIU Agriculture department has had a consultative interest in the program, too.

Although Vohs' work has been concerned primarily with better cover for game, the idea has other valuable considerations for farmers. It is too early to be certain about game increases as a result of the experiment, but Vohs did find a marked increase in rabbit population in one of the areas.

Two or three other values of this type are pointed out by agriculturists.

Of special consideration to southern Illinois farmers are its soil building and erosion control possibilities. It is a well-known fact that corn grown as a cultivated row crop subjects rolling fields to heavy erosion unless special precautions are taken. Seeding with a grass or legume between wide-spaced rows will provide soil-holding cover.

The green crop also furnishes good forage for pasturing livestock after the corn has been harvested, supplementing the usual corn gleanings that cattle get when they are turned into the stalk fields.

In the spring the crop may be plowed down as green manure to build up soil humus for another corn crop. The legume or grass cover thus may serve as a rotation crop in a corn growing program.

Experimenters claim that any supposed decreases in corn yields due to eliminated rows of corn may be overcome by increasing the number of plants in remaining rows.

Two methods of seeding may be used. Vohs used a narrow drill, but if farmers do not have such a tool available the seed may be broadcast in the field before cultivating the corn crop for the last time.

Minnesota Youth Wins 4-H Sheep Shearing Contest

CHICAGO (U.P.)—A 19-year-old Minnesota farm youth won the national 4-H sheep shearing contest Friday at the International Livestock Exposition.

Nick Luhman of Goodhue, Minn., sheared a sheep in four minutes, 46 seconds, for a winning point record of 94.40 out of a possible 100 points.

Paul Burris, 19, of Uniontown, Ind., was second with 94.20 points. In the professional classification, Darrell Stoops of Sharpville, Ind., placed first with a point record of 94.73, and Bill Hay of Chana, Ill., second with 94.54.

Luhman won a $300 college scholarship. He said he would add that to the approximately $1,000 he's earned since last spring, shearing the neighbors' sheep at 50 cents a head.

REMEMBER BABY
If friend or neighbor might be embarrassed by Christmas gifts, it is often a good idea to select a gift for youngster instead. A sterling silver big pin or a jeweler's gift certificate for bronzing of baby's first shoes will be appreciated.

Smokey Says:

Dry weather and fire were tough this year. Let's try harder next year.

(A round-up of the week's work, activities, and observations at the University of Illinois Dixon Springs Experiment Station near Robbs in southern Illinois, prepared by the Station staff.)

Counting Grass

When George McKibben and Lee Gard, pasture experts at the Dixon Springs Experiment Station, report that certain fertility treatments or grazing management practices either encourage or discourage a certain grass or clover, they are not guessing. Nor are their conclusions based on observation only, but on painstaking vegetative counts. That's right; they make thousands of mechanical countings of the different grasses and clovers. It's not very exciting work, but it is necessary if we are to reach sound conclusions.

During the past two weeks John Bailey and Wayne Mizell, chief stand counters, have been literally scanning the pastures blade by blade, identifying and recording each type of vegetation present. They have been taking point quadrat readings. The point quadrat is a device to make their work easier and more accurate. It is a light steel frame about 18 inches long set on four legs so that the frame clears vegetation when placed on the ground. The steel frame holds 10 equally spaced wire pointers.

Teamwork

John and Wayne work as a team, one to identify and the other to record. They carry the point quadrat into the pasture and set it down at random several hundred times. At each setting each of the 10 wire pointers is pushed down until it touches a blade of grass, a clover leaf, a weed or bare ground. The object of first contact is identified and recorded. A summary of the readings gives a quick and accurate picture of each pasture field.

Usually all experimental pastures are read by point quadrat in the spring and again in the fall. Such readings are in addition to hand separations of forage species made from pasture samples cut during the summer.

If we were to ask John or Wayne why an agricultural experiment station cannot be entirely self-supporting, they would have a really good answer.

Wintering Steer Calves

The steer wintering program on the Station is governed by the type of land. The land is rolling and the thin, shallow soil is easily lost if handled improperly. Proper handling requires that the land be covered at least 80 percent of the time with pasture and hay crops. This means that we have hay and pasture to sell. The only practical way of selling these crops is through livestock, which make most of their growth on pasture and roughage alone.

Experience has taught us that grain fed to steers, calves or yearlings during the winter will be wasted if the steers are to be grazed without grain the following summer. They will lose the fat put on during the winter when they go to pasture without extra feed. So we try to winter them for health and normal growth without fattening. Except for very young or light calves, a good rough-

Give Your Dairy Cows Warm Water To Drink

It's cheaper to use coal or oil to heat water before your dairy cows drink it than to use expensive feeds to do the job after it is in their stomachs.

Leo Fryman, extension dairy specialist at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, says your water heater should be in good condition before cold weather sets in.

Providing plenty of warm water for your cows this winter, in a place protected from cold winds, will both cut your feed bills and bring you more milk to sell, Fryman says.

If dairy cows have to drink cold water, they will use a good part of the feed they eat as fuel to warm it. Cold water also slows up a cow's digestive process and may stop it altogether when a large volume of cold water first enters the stomach.

Fryman suggests that you turn your cows out for water at least twice a day in winter if you don't have watering sips in the barn. The cows will drink more water under this system and may produce as much as 10 percent more butterfat than if you water them only once a day.

For a Christmas tree with a snowy, outdoorsy look, try this: Mix just enough water to soap flakes to moisten thoroughly and whip with an egg beater until frothy. Spread the soap mixture over the branches and sprinkle with artificial snow.

The sure and nimble touch of the hands of a great pianist is the result of hours of daily practice over a period of years. The great and thrilling music which he creates is the product of daily devotion to his art.

Every fine accomplishment in life requires the same daily devotion. If your house is neat as a pin, if you have a lovely garden, if your office is well-run and efficient, you know that it takes hours of daily care and devotion. It takes practice!

So with prayer. Prayer is one of the highest gifts a man has. But if it is to become more than a spasmodic and superstitious cry for help, it too requires daily care and devotion. It takes practice!

The Church stands ready to help you and your children know the great joy which comes to a man through daily prayer. And the best part of it, the more you practice prayer, the greater the joy and happiness you will derive from it.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

'The Meaning of Discipleship'

Luke 9:57-62

GOLDEN TEXT: "If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily, and follow me." (Luke 9:23)

INTRODUCTION: What does it mean to be a disciple of Christ? The word "disciple" means: "One who receives instruction from another." Therefore, a disciple of Christ is one who receives instruction from him.

The Twelve Apostles were Jesus' first disciples. They received instruction from him for three years. They watched him perform miracles and listened to his teaching day after day. Their three years of training was better than any number of years spent in college and seminary today. All who follow Jesus today, and receive his instructions, are as much his disciples as were those first Twelve.

We must turn to Jesus' teachings in the New Testament, if we are to find the real meaning of discipleship.

I THE TRUE DISCIPLE (V. 23-27)

1. HE WILL DENY SELF—The one who really means business in the matter of following Christ will "deny himself." To deny one's self means more than doing without something you might desire. It means complete and absolute submission of your will to God's will. It means that no matter what your own desires may be, you will submit to the desires of God upon your life.

2. HE WILL TAKE UP HIS CROSS DAILY—Cross bearing is not a hit and miss affair. It is not something you do this week and leave off next week. Cross bearing is a daily duty and privilege of every Christian.

Additional Church Notes

Bearing one's cross does not mean that illness, affliction, sorrow, or adversity that you have. A fine woman said to me one day that her crippled leg was her cross. No, that is not the kind of cross to which Jesus here refers. He means that you are to give yourself, without reservation, completely into his hands. If you do this, you will be giving him, also, adversity. When you do, they will your illness, affliction, sorrow, or no longer be burdens to you, but examples for Christ.

3. HE WILL FOLLOW JESUS—This is also a daily matter. The person who has been "born again" wants to follow Jesus and receive his instructions daily.

II JESUS' TRANSFIGURATION (V. 28-36)
Jesus took Peter and James and John up into the mountain to pray. This was a sublime privilege for these three disciples. The three became a little drowsy and they were suddenly made to become fully awake by the shining glory of our Lord.

Peter, as always, blurted out his feelings. He wanted to build three tabernacles; one for Jesus, one for Moses, and one for Elias. He wanted to stay on the mountain top, and he said so.
Have you ever wondered just what Jesus and Moses and Elijah were talking about during that marvelous transfiguration? I believe that Moses and Elijah were telling Jesus that if he failed to go all the way to Calvary and there die on the cross, that all the people of all the ages past, who had offered up blood sacrifices for their sins, would be lost. Every blood sacrifice in the Old Testament pointed to the time when Christ would make the perfect sacrifice for your sins and mine.

CONCLUSION:—A Christian disciple is one who receives the teachings of Jesus. A Christian is one who denies himself and takes up his cross and follows Jesus daily.

None of us will ever be transformed exactly like Jesus was. However, any of us can be transformed by his redeeming blood, through daily prayer and self-sacrifice. Are you one of his disciples?

Shawneetown and Galatia Win to Remain Unbeaten in Loop Play

Shawneetown and Galatia continued their unbeaten ways in Greater Egyptian conference play Friday night. Shawneetown won from Cave-in-Rock 64-48 and Galatia defeated Vienna 58-51. In other games Rosiclare took a 93-53 decision from Ridgway and Equality dropped a thriller at Pope County, 66-64.

The way the league race shapes up at present, the first "crucial" game of the season will be played on Dec. 16 when Shawneetown invades Galatia. The league lead will probably be at stake that night. Shawneetown had a hot first half, holding a 43-24 halftime advantage. In the second half Cave-in-Rock came roaring back and outscored the league leaders 24-21, but it wasn't enough to really worry Shawneetown, who counted only five points in a poor third frame.

Cave had a steady attack, counting 12 points in each of the four quarters.

Nolen and Gunzel, with 24 and 16 respectively, led Shawneetown. Sturgill with 12 was tops for Cave-in-Rock.

Tate Scores 23 Points
Galatia led Vienna at the end of every period, but at no time was the advantage decisive and the outcome of the game was more or less in doubt right down to the final horn.

J. Tate hit for 23 points to keep Galatia in the unbeaten list. Yandell scored 22 points for Vienna scoring honors.

The real thriller of the night was played at Pope County with the home team edging past Equality 66-64. With only five seconds to play and the score knotted at 64-

Eagles Beat Carmi, 55-48, For Second Win

Eldorado's Eagles won their second game of the basketball season Friday night, taking a 55-48 decision from Carmi. The game was played on the Eldorado floor.

It was a tight defensive game, with Carmi using a pressing defense to advantage throughout the game and Eldorado's good zone keeping Carmi from getting in close.

The winning Eagles had a fine first quarter, running up a 17-6 lead and making it stand up for victory.

Carmi went through the first period without scoring from the field and almost a minute of the second frame had passed before the visitors found the range.

Ronnie Clark, with steady floor play and a good shooting eye, was the key to Eldorado's success. Clark scored 16 points on six fielders and four free tosses, did a good job of advancing the ball against the Carmi press, broke up Carmi plays on several occasions and came up with rebounds at crucial moments.

McComb and Emery were good under the boards for Carmi and the former was top scorer for his team with 11 markers.

Johnston City Edges Carrier Mills, 73 to 69

Indians Win Out In Closing Minutes Of Thrilling Game

The invading Johnston City Indians took a 73-69 decision from Carrier Mills Friday night in a thriller that had the fans on edge from start to finish.

Carrier Mills held leads at the end of each of the first three periods and at one time in the third frame was ahead by a 10-point spread, but the Indians kept pressing and finally won out in the closing minutes.

Slater, a fine all-round performer, broke through the Carrier Mills passing twice late in the game to grab the ball and go in for layups. He scored six consecutive points as the game ticked away to put the winning Indians in front to stay. For the game Slater racked up seven field goals and 11 free tosses for a total of 25 points.

Even though their team lost, Carrier Mills fans were heartened by the play of the Wildcats and were high in their praise of the hard-driving game by Jim Reid, the defensive rebounding of Vern Hollins and good out-court shooting by Fitts. Oliver Rollins, backbone of the team's offense, played his usual top notch game and was the night's leading scorer with 36 markers.

Carrier Mills was on top at the quarter 17-14 and at halftime led 36-28. After three quarters JC trailed by only two points, 47-45 and a 28-point spurge by the Indians in the final frame brought victory.

Tonight Carrier Mills plays at Carterville and Johnston City pays a visit to West Frankfort.

Local Squad Shows Improvement in First South Seven Contest

The Harrisburg Bull Dogs lost their opening South Seven conference basketball game to Herrin, 61 to 39, at Davenport gym last night but showed marked improvement over their initial contest with Carmi a week ago.

The locals still have plenty to learn but if they improve as much the coming week as they did the past, they will be able to give Benton a battle all the way when the Rangers come to town next Friday night.

The two tall juniors, Wayne Stone and Bryan Jones, who led the scoring against Carmi, were high point boys for the locals again last night. Stone had 15 points, Jones 13, and it was at the free throw line where they excelled. Stone made his first nine shots, then missed the last two. Jones made seven out of eight.

Herrin Leads 35-22 at Half Coach Gene Bland started Jones, Stone and Bennie Fulkerson, juniors, and Tony Beal and Don McGowan, seniors. Beal did a good job under the boards.

The Bull Dogs showed plenty of class during the entire first period and half of the second, but then eased off and Herrin started pulling away.

The first
